PROFILE

As a final year undergraduate student in economics and management, specializing in international business and commerce management, I strongly believe that mastering multiple languages is essential to understanding and being understood in an increasingly globalized environment. Thanks to my experience studying abroad in Mexico and various other experiences, I have developed strong language skills, particularly in Spanish and English. I am an extremely mobile and dynamic candidate, seeking an international master's degree through an apprenticeship program. With my desire to explore new horizons and take on new challenges, I am convinced that this professional experience will allow me to develop my skills in the business world while also strengthening my academic background.
